THE RICHEST MAN IN BABYLON

MODERN ENGLISH EDITION

GEORGE S. CLASON

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2024

https://archive.org/details/isbn_9798395421142

The Richest Man in Babylon

By George S. Clason

Modern English Edition

Translated by Brandon Hulet

Presented by thefibrary.com

Published by Superb Stories

All rights reserved.

No part of this book may be reproduced or transmitted by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise, without written permission from the publisher.

Originally published in 1926

Foreword

Our prosperity as a nation depends upon the personal financial prosperity of each of us as individuals.

This book deals with the personal successes of each of us. Success means accomplishments as the result of our own efforts and abilities. Proper preparation is the key to our success. Our acts can be no wiser than our thoughts. Our thinking can be no wiser than our understanding.

This book of cures for lean purses has been termed a guide to financial understanding. That, indeed, is its purpose: to offer those who are ambitious for financial success an insight which will aid them to acquire money, to keep money, and to make their surpluses earn more money.

In the pages which follow, we are taken back to Babylon, the cradle in which was nurtured the basic principles of finance now recognized and used the world over.

To new readers the author is happy to extend the wish that its pages may contain for them the same inspiration for growing bank accounts, greater financial successes and the solution of difficult personal financial problems so enthusiastically reported by readers from coast to coast.

To the business executives who have distributed these tales in such generous quantities to friends, relatives, employees and associates, the author takes this opportunity to express his gratitude. No endorsement could be higher than that of practical men who appreciate its teachings because they, themselves, have worked up to important successes by applying the very principles it advocates.

Babylon became the wealthiest city of the ancient world because its citizens were the richest people of their time. They appreciated the value of money. They practiced sound financial principles in acquiring money, keeping money, and making their money earn more money. They provided for themselves what we all desire . . . incomes for the future.

G.S.C

Contents

Foreword i

The Man Who Desired Gold 1

The Richest Man in Babylon 7

Seven Cures for a Lean Purse 17

- The First Cure 20
- The Second Cure 22
- The Third Cure 24
- The Fourth Cure 26
- The Fifth Cure 27
- The Sixth Cure 28
- The Seventh Cure 30

Meet the Goddess of Good Luck 34

The Five Laws of Gold 46

- The First Law of Gold 54
- The Second Law of Gold 54
- The Third Law of Gold 54
- The Fourth Law of Gold 55
- The Fifth Law of Gold 55

The Gold Lender of Babylon 57

The Walls of Babylon 68

The Camel Trader of Babylon 72

The Clay Tablets From Babylon 82

The Luckiest Man in Babylon 92

A Historical Sketch of Babylon 108

The Richest Man in Babylon

Money is the medium by which earthly success is measured.

Money makes possible the enjoyment of the best the earth affords.

Money is plentiful for those who understand the simple laws which govern its acquisitions.

Money is governed today by the same laws which controlled it when prosperous men thronged the streets of Babylon, six thousand years ago.